DR. TORREY TELLS BIBLE STUDENTS HOW TO STUDY IT

Twelve Words and Their Application to Subject This Morning.

Last Day Service of the Revival.

SCOTCH SONG THIS EVENING.

In ten words Dr. R. A. Torrey summed up the proper way to study the Bible, in his lecture at the Auditorium, Tenth street and Broadway, this morning. He added that the study must be, as all things connected with one's religion must be, "in the spirit."

Mr. Kinsey sang "Hold Thou My Hand", and Dr. Torrey announced that tonight by request Mr. McEwan will sing his Scotch song, which pleased an audience a few nights ago.

"The Bible is a gold mine," commented Dr. Torrey, "but a person must know how to dig to get the gold and know gold when he sees it."

He spoke of three valuable books for use in study: "The Scofield Bible," "The Treasury of Scripture Knowledge" and "The New Topical Text Book."

He said a person should study daily. We take our meals regularly, and our regularity in eating insures our health. A man grows spiritually by reading regularly. A special time must be set aside for reading the Bible, preferably the first minutes after arising, as the mind is freshest. The worst time to study is just before going to bed, though that is a good time just to read a verse or a chapter. He advised everyone to give fifteen minutes daily to study of the Bible.

Study must be systematic. It is the only way anything can be done properly; business, work and study can be accomplished only by system. The Bible should be studied comprehensively. "Study the whole Bible," said Dr. Torrey. If a person simply studies along one line, like divine healing or the second coming, he becomes a crank. These things are important, but so are all other things in the Bible.

Study the Bible consecutively, he advised. Begin with the first chapter of Genesis and go right through. It is all the word of God. He said the best Bible scholars have gotten the greatest good from this kind of reading.

Five questions should be asked by the student on each chapter and verse: What is the principal subject treated? Who is the principal person? What is the principal lesson taught? Which is the best verse? What does it teach about Jesus Christ? Everything in the Bible points to Jesus Christ, he said. It is well to study the Bible topically; but not to study it that way exclusively. The topical text book is a help in this, looking up everything that refers to prayer, or the Holy Spirit, or whatever the topic the student is considering.

Bible Not a Charm.
The Bible should be studied attentively. He said many people think there is some hocus-pocus about the Bible, by which they will be blessed by keeping it on the center table or carrying it under the arm. One might as well rub the Bible on his knee for rheumatism, said Dr. Torrey. The Bible is valuable for the truths it contains. One should meditate upon what he studies; mark strong words and passages, and memorize, not only the contents, but the chapter and verse with each quotation.

Study chapters and verses repeatedly, said Dr. Torrey. Each book should be read through ten times without stopping. He told of looking at theistine Madonna for hours, until he saw the picture. If one reads his Bible until he SEES what is in it he will have a new Bible, said Dr. Torrey.

The Bible should be studied comparatively; that is, the Scriptures should be compared with the scriptures. There is no other commentary on the Bible so good as the Bible itself. There is not a book verse that can not be interpreted by the help of parallel passages in the Bible.

Study the Bible, believing. The promises are to be believed literally and in their entirety, and this means that the student must also obey all the commands in the Bible. Obedience of one verse will interpret twenty others. Disobedience of one will close the Bible to our eyes.

Study the Bible prayerfully. We have the promise that if we ask the Holy Spirit will come and enlighten us.

Judge Rucker's Son Warned out of Eddyville by Night Rider Notice To His Brother-In-Law There

Had Returned to Claim Personal Property of His Father--Woman's Bone Protrudes From Wound.

Metropolis, Ill., Oct. 28. (Special.)

"Eddyville, Ky., Oct. 28.—Friend Joe, we understand that Hewlett Rucker is staying at your home. Now Joe we are your friends and we don't want to cause you any trouble, so we are taking this method to notify you to please leave the city, or there is liable to be a great deal of unnecessary trouble. Now Joe you tell him what we say or we will see about you. At hand we stand a united band. Signed N. R's."

The foregoing letter, typewritten, was received through the mail by Joseph Robertson, brother-in-law of Hewlett Rucker, the son of former Police Judge Rucker, who was compelled to flee from Kentucky to escape the wrath of night riders, after he was whipped and warned on the bank of the Cumberland river near Eddyville two years ago. Judge Rucker and his daughter, Mrs. Toomey, escaped to Metropolis, and brought suit in the federal court at Paducah against a hundred or more alleged night riders. They left some of their belongings in Eddyville and sent Hewlett Rucker after them. He says he was insulted by people in whose possession he found them, and then his brother-in-law, with whom he was staying, received the night rider warning.

Two Terrible Accidents.
Bardwell, Ky., Oct. 28.—When the horse of Mrs. Thomas J. Donaldson, of Bardwell, ran away, she was thrown to the ground, alighting on her feet with such force that her left ankle bone snapped and protruded through the flesh and her stocking. Her daughter, who was riding with her, escaped without injury.

Mrs. Alice Shebourne, a teacher in the Carlisle county schools, was a victim of a similar accident. Her horse ran into a tree and in trying to free herself from the buggy, kicked over the herself from the buggy kicked over her right leg.

Husband and Wife Die.

La Center, Ky., Oct. 28.—Typhoid fever caused the death within a week of James Hall and his wife at Blandville. Mrs. Hall was ill when her husband died, and fearing the consequences of the shock, her attendants never told her of the event. She died without knowing that her husband had preceded her to the grave a few days, and was laid by his side.

Incendiary Fire.
La Center, Ky., Oct. 28.—Fire of incendiary origin destroyed a house at Pace's Landing, Ballard county, belonging to Edward Terrell. It was a total loss with the household goods of Mrs. George Dismukes, the tenant. There is no clew.

Say it Was Gas.
San Francisco, Oct. 28.—A report of the state labor committee filed today finds the destruction of the Los Angeles Times resulted from gas explosion, not dynamite.

AUTOMOBILIST FEELS BAD OVER KILLING MAN
St. Louis, Oct. 28.—Unnerved by the shock of running down and killing a man in his automobile, August Busch, millinaire brewer, is confined to his bed today, ill, according to the family. The brewer's version of the accident in which Harry Dittmer, 22, a plumber, was killed last night, is not obtainable today. Busch intends to settle a sum upon Dittmer's young widow sufficient to keep her from want.

HUSBAND SHOT AT; AND BYSTANDERS RECEIVE BULLETS

John Crice, Caught With Another's Wife, Shoots Recklessly Into Crowd.

Said to Have Family of His Own at Home.

HAD SPENT NIGHT TOGETHER.

Two bystanders were wounded and Peter B. Vaughan, 29 years old, of Tenth and Washington streets, was the target for three bullets fired at him shortly before 8 o'clock last night by John C. Crice, 47 years old of Wickliffe, Ky., a stranger who was in company with the pretty and stylish wife of Vaughan.

The shooting was remarkable for the fact that it took place in front of the ladies' entrance to the Palmer House, where Police Sergeant E. H. Cross was standing talking with Vaughan, about his wife and the other man, with whom it was charged she had occupied room No. 39 at the Palmer House Wednesday night.

Two shots went wild into the crowd of pedestrians and bystanders at the hotel entrance, one seriously injuring Joseph Ashoff, 16 years old, and the second striking Mary Riley, colored, 708 Tennessee street in the forehead, causing a scalp wound.

The third shot punctured a metal sign in front of W. B. McPherson's drug store, adjoining and at the right of the entrance, and where Sergeant Cross and Vaughan had been standing.

Ducking through the scattering throng Vaughan, who was unarmed, darted into Stutz' candy kitchen, at the left of the entrance, where he remained until after Sergeant Cross had rushed to Crice and disarmed him. Mrs. Vaughan stood bewildered nervous on the sidewalk, and both she and Crice were placed under arrest and taken to police headquarters.

Couple Arrested.
Two charges of malicious shooting and wounding with intent to kill were preferred against Crice, one for malicious shooting without wounding; and both he and Mrs. Vaughan were charged with adultery, to which charge both pleaded guilty in police court this morning and were fined $25 each, following a consultation between City Attorney Martin and attorneys for the defendants. Mrs. Vaughan had previously been fined $50 upon her confession but the judgment was set aside.

Mrs. Vaughan, who is just 22 years old, wept bitterly in her cell after court this morning and declined to discuss her relations with Crice. She said her home is in Nashville and that she was married to Vaughan in Dixon county, Tennessee, December 21, 1907. They had been living in Paducah and last June moved to Cairo, where she admitted she met Crice for the first time. She said she and her husband returned to Paducah last Monday and were residing at Tenth and Washington streets. She said she had no relatives in Paducah and refused to say anything about the affair of last night, but admitted that she met Crice at the train Wednesday night.

The Wounded.
Joseph Ashoff, caught a stray bullet in the front of the left leg just below the knee cap and Dr. J. D. Robertson says the injury may be permanent. He lives with his grandmother, Mrs. Pauline Ashoff.

The scalp wound received by Mary Riley was dressed by Dr. B. L. Bradley and is not dangerous. The ball entered just over the left eye, plowing its way to above the ear and failing to the sidewalk, where it was found mashed into a disc by W. R. Taylor, a traveling man.

Vaughan, who had missed his wife since Wednesday night, heard that she was stopping at the Palmer House with another man and went there shortly after 7:30 o'clock last night. Mrs. Vaughan left home Wednesday night, meeting Crice at the train at Eleventh street and Broadway and they went to the Palmer House, registering as "J. Howard and wife, Cairo."

They stayed in room 39 that night it is said, and were there the most part of the day yesterday. Late in the afternoon they left while Clerk Richard Ashbrook was on watch. When the infuriated husband called at the hotel he demanded to be shown to the room. He told Manager Sinnott of his information that his wife was there in company with another man. After he had described his wife Night Clerk Sam Abell was sure "Mrs. Howard" was the same woman.

Going to the room, Mr. Sinnott knocked at the door but there was no answer. Returning, he told McCANN'S SENTENCE.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Former Police Inspector Edward McCann must serve from one to five years in the state penitentiary as a result of the supreme court's action today in overruling McCann's appeal for a new trial. The lower court's sentence is upheld.

Vaughan they were not in at the time, but Vaughan doubted this and insisted on being shown. Mr. Sinnott succeeded in calming Vaughan, who went to the Broadway entrance, where he afterwards told his troubles to Sergeant Cross, who was summoned to the hotel by Manager Sinnott. While Vaughan and Mr. Cross were talking Mrs. Vaughan and Crice, walking east on Broadway, came up and the husband saw them.

The Encounter.
Rushing to them, he separated them by catching them by the shoulders. He pushed Crice from the sidewalk. Reaching for his gun Vaughan found he had overlooked it in his hurry to find his wife, and Crice, who claims that he thought himself in danger, drew his 32-caliber revolver and began firing at Vaughan, who darted into Stutz's. The shots were discharged while Sergeant Cross was hurrying to Crice's side.

"You've done enough shooting this time," said Mr. Cross, as he caught Crice by the arm. Crice dropped his gun and handed it to Sergeant Cross. Mrs. Vaughan, trembling from head to foot and sobbing, was taken in charge by Cross and both were conducted to police headquarters, accompanied by Vaughan, who came out of hiding after Crice had been disarmed.

Prominent Stock Man.
Crice is a cousin of Attorney Thomas Crice, of the law firm of Hendrick & Crice, and is a prominent stock raiser of Wickliffe. He said he met Mrs. Vaughan at the hotel and they took supper at a cafe on lower Broadway and intended going to the theaters. He said he did not know Peter Vaughan and when his wife exclaimed: "There's my husband now, and he'll kill both of us," when they arrived at the entrance to the hotel, he knew nothing to do except defend himself. He shot at the man advancing upon him through the crowd. He said Vaughan had his hand on his hip pocket and he thought he was going to be killed on the spot.

Vaughan was free to discuss the shooting and said he went after his gun to shoot Crice. He said he returned to Paducah and was a tobacco planter, having secured a position in the new tobacco factory. He said his wife left him about 8 o'clock Wednesday night, telling him that she was going to the train to meet her uncle. Her failure to return home aroused his suspicions and he instituted a search for her.

Mrs. Vaughan was unable to make bond, and was assigned to the best cell in the prison.

Crice gave bond, aggregating $1,000 in all four cases, for his appearance in police court this morning.

In Police Court.
The court room was crowded by curious spectators and Mrs. Vaughan was the center of attraction in a pretty red hat and fur cloak.

The absence of Mary Riley and Joe Ashoff, the two victims of the shooting scrape, and other witnesses, resulted in Crice's trial on three charges of malicious shooting being continued to Saturday morning, November 5, after an agreement between the attorneys. Crice has employed Attorney Tom Crice, Hal S. Corbett and Crossland & Crossland. The date for a trial was advanced in order that out-of-town witnesses might be secured. Mrs. Vaughan and her husband were recognized for their appearance.

Vaughan claims he does not know Crice and saw him for the first time last night. Mrs. Vaughan is a Nashville girl, according to her statement. Crice is a prominent resident of Wickliffe and has a wife and two children.

When you have a restless, sleepless night and are nervous, grumpy and not fit for society, business or anything else—you need treatment.

Dr. Edwards prescribes Olive Tablets for you. Not calomel—no, indeed—not sickening calomel, but the little, sweet, pleasant-acting Olive Tablets.

They don't contain calomel, but olive oil, which is healing and soothing to the irritated organs.

Dr. Edwards discovered the formula for Olive Tablets only after 17 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaints. Nothing ever equalled these little sugar-coated tablets for preventing "dark brown taste," bad breath, pimples, constipation, torpid livers, that dull, listless, "no good" feeling etc.

Take one, as thousands do, every night for awhile on going to bed. See how it clears your complexion, brain and outlook of life in general.

At all druggists in neat pocket packages. 15 tablets for 10c; 45 tablets for 25c.

Such a statement, coming from the cashier of a bank, shows what confidence responsible people have in these pills. Mr. A. L. Wilson after trying them wrote:

WAS TWICE ELECTED GOVERNOR OF HIS NATIVE STATE.

Was Colonel in Civil War; Scholar, Educator, Representative and Congressman.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 28.—Allen Daniel Candler, twice governor of Georgia, died at his home here after an extended illness. Governor Candler was 76 years old, and was born in Aurora, Lumpkin county. His earliest ancestor in America was Daniel Candler, who emigrated from Ireland and served in the Revolutionary war as a colonel in the American army.

Governor Candler was graduated from Mercer college in 1859, and became a school teacher at Jonesboro. In 1861 he entered the Confederate army as a private, and rose to the rank of colonel. He was twice wounded, losing an eye. At the close of hostilities he resumed teaching at Jonesboro, and was successively elected mayor, representative and senator in the state legislature, and congressman.

He later became secretary of state for Georgia, which position he resigned to become candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket in 1898. During his second term as governor he was commissioned to compile the colonial, revolutionary and Confederate records of Georgia. Since 1893 he had been president of the Mutual Life Insurance association. His wife and nine children survive him.

He was the brother of Bishop Candler, who will preside over the Memphis conference here.

TOBACCO MARKETS.

Louisville, Oct. 28.—The opening of the tobacco market lacked the activity of the first two days of the week, and the prices realized on the early sales were far from satisfactory. At the Dark House, out of 51 sales, 24 were rejected, while the early burley prices were unusually low.

The offerings this morning were heavier than any other day this week.

The bidding grew livelier during the afternoon, and prices took on a better tone. Some hogheads of old burley were sold at 19 cents, while the rejections were fewer.

The offerings on the local breaks follow:

New burley, 261; new dark, 4, 1900 crop; Burley, 239; old dark, 91. Old crops: Burley, 1. Original inspection, 557; reviews, 35; total, 596. Rejections Wednesday: Burley, 57; dark, 69.

FACE CLEARED BEAUTIFULLY.

All Traces of Acne Are Gone—Poslam's Power Over All Skin Diseases.

"For six years I had what some skin specialists term 'acne,'" writes Miss Olive Brown, 997 West Delaware avenue, Buffalo, N. Y. "I doctored with some of the best physicians, but instead of improving it became worse. I used poslam faithfully, and after a month my face has cleared up beautifully, without a single scar. However, I still continue to use poslam as a cleanser and preventer, and then, too, it has such a soothing effect."

Poslam is probably the most widely recommended remedy available to the public. Any one will appreciate why this is so after sending to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City, for a sample (mailed free in plain wrapper) and seeing its work demonstrated in the quick removal of pimples, rashes, eruptions, undue redness or in clearing the complexion over night. Poslam should be used whenever the skin ails. Worst cases of eczema, tetter, scabies, itch and like surface skin troubles yield to it readily, itching being stopped at once. Poslam is sold by all druggists, particularly Gilbert's and R. W. Walker Co.'s in two sizes, at 50 cents and $2.

BANKERS ASS'N OF ILLINOIS

ENDS 20TH ANNUAL MEETING BY ELECTING NEW OFFICERS.

Wants Law Amended to Permit National Bank's to Loan on Real Estate.

NEW ORLEANS EXPOSITION.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 28.—The Illinois Bankers' association concluded its twentieth annual meeting yesterday afternoon at the Chicago opera house, by hearing reports, electing officers, naming committees, adopting resolutions, etc. Several very interesting addresses were heard in the morning, one by Prof. Hopkins, of the University of Illinois, who spoke of conservation of the soil, and the bankers' interest in the prosperity of the farmer; and another by E. L. Gurney, of Fremont, Neb., who made one of the most interesting addresses of the meeting, partly in a humorous vein, but strong in suggestions regarding the needs of the banking system in the United States. Another address presenting a matter of much concern to bankers was by R. R. Gilkins, of the American Surety company, on the advisability of bonding employees and generally letting the surety company take the place of individual bondsmen.

The officers elected were as follows:

President—E. E. Crabtree, Jacksonville, Ill.

Vice President—B. F. Harris, Champaign, Ill.

Secretary and Treasurer—Frank Lackland, Kankakee, Ill.

Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Jennings, Chicago.

President Executive Council—J. C. Phillips, Green Valley, Ill.

One of the pleasant incidents of the afternoon session was the presentation of a beautiful pin to the retiring President Foreman, in appreciation of his services to the association. The member who made the presentation concluded by welcoming Mr. Foreman to membership in the great army of has-beens.

The executive council consists of the members who were named. A committee of five was appointed to revise the constitution.

Resolutions.

Several resolutions were adopted. Among them was one declaring it the sense of the association that New Orleans was the "logical point" for the Panama canal exposition in 1915. Also a resolution urging the bankers to extend dealing in commercial paper in the open market with certified auditing. A resolution expressing the association's appreciation of the manner of their reception and entertainment in Chicago was adopted as follows:

Resolved, that the bankers of the state of Illinois in convention assembled, deeply appreciate the royal hospitality that has been extended to them by the bankers, the citizens and last, but not least, the mayor of the city of Chicago. The spirit of kindness shown to the visitors and the character of the entertainments provided, have been so charming a nature that a grateful remembrance thereof is sure to abide with everyone who has attended the convention. The sincere thanks to the delegates and guests are hereby extended to our hosts and especially to the fair hostesses, who, by their prominent part they have taken in the entertainment have lent to it its greatest charm.

The picture shows how the fire travels in heating the oven.

Put your finger on the arrows and follow them across top, down the descending flue, over and back under the oven (which has been removed) then up the return flue and out the smoke pipe and you'll understand how the fire travels in a Laurel Twin-Flue Range when heating the oven.

One of the Handsome Laurel
Models

See the flue strips marked 13? The side strip 13 divides the space between back of stove and oven (which has been removed) and makes two independent up and down flues—Nos. 9 and 11. The bottom strip 13 divides part of the space under the oven thereby continuing flues 9 and 11 beneath the oven.

When you want to heat a Laurel oven you close damper No. 10—as it is in the illustration. The heat then travels down flue No. 11, circles around under oven bottom, rises through No. 9 and then out the smoke pipe.

How to Get Rid of Your Constipation—Trial Free

It is too long a story to tell of all the different methods resorted to for the cure of constipation, ranging, as they do, from massage to stomach pads and from simple salts to powerful cathartics. It is only after a person has tried these makeshift methods that he begins to realize how futile they are.

Waste no further time on them but try a scientific preparation, one that has some basis in reason and fact, and then watch results. The remedy for the intelligent, who are striving for permanent not temporary results, and do not want their intestines nearly strangled by the average violent cathartic, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has been on the market for so many years that its stability is assured.

Any druggist will sell you a bottle—it is a liquid remedy and not a pill—at fifty cents and one dollar, but if you hesitate about buying, even in spite of the numerous testimonials, then write Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle, which he will gladly send you on receipt of your name and address. Thousands of persons have recovered the perfect use of their stomach and bowel muscles by first

Mr. David McNeely and family, Mr. Nola Whitlock and family and Mrs. Mary Nichols have been visiting relatives near here for the past week.

The members of the Baptist church have roofed their church house the past week.

Last Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m. Richard Ford and Ruth Hunt were married, while sitting in their buggy on the street in front of the residence of Elder L. V. Henson.

A large crowd composed of relatives and neighbors, gathered and the day was spent in talking, singing, eating, drinking and music by the organ and graphophone.

Mr. Rufe Downs, the tobacco man of Murray, has rented the barn of J. D. Peterson on the southeast side of court square, and will buy and prize tobacco here this year.

Last Tuesday morning, just as everybody was going to work for the day, the alarm was sounded and before the bucket brigade could get there, the large two story residence in North Benton belonging to Gus Lents was destroyed by fire.

If the Floor is Warm the Whole Room is Warm

The fire in the Wilson Heater is so perfectly under control that with very little attention to the dampers, your rooms can be kept in a constant, healthful temperature. The celebrated Down-Draft creates perfect combustion in the Heater so that the whole heater gives out heat instead of just the top portion, as is the case with other heaters. You know, of course, that hot air rises so that when the Wilson heats the floor as well as the upper air of the room the whole room remains at a steady even temperature.

Daily Thought.

I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it.—Bible.

Jackson, Tenn., has a "Bob Taylor Club." It will be Bob Taylor club about November 9.

We never have seen anyone with enough faith that poison wasn't poison to risk drinking it; but we have some melancholy friends, so discouraged with life, that we believe their own pessimism would take the poison out of prussic acid; if they'd drink it with suicidal intent.

Simple, wholesome, natural people, who try to do on all occasions as they would be done by; who are grateful for what they have; who think that what they can't have would be hurtful to them, anyway; and believe their mission in life is to make other people happy, will be told by the very people they are trying to make happy: "I wish I could be as happy as you."

SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION.

The question of consolidating rural schools is being agitated in Missouri and is expected to come before the legislature of that state this winter.

Aside from the question of the decreasing number of persons of school age it is evident that Missouri has too many school districts. A great many of the counties have as many as 100 districts, and the number should be reduced advantageously by consolidation. The existing law permits consolidation under certain circumstances, but there is no provision for the transportation of pupils. Means of carrying the children to and from school would be absolutely necessary in the event of consolidation in country districts.

"One good school is better than half a dozen weak ones, and the merger plan if carried out in Missouri would result certainly in more efficient schools and probably in saving a good deal of money that is now expended to small purpose in poorly populated districts. Consolidation has proven its value in Indiana and in other states, and it should be the policy in every state where there are struggling country schools with sparse attendance."

This editorial from the Courier-Journal, recalls McCracken county's foolish experiment, by which the school in a populous suburb of Paducah was closed and the children banded off to a distant district. The result, while a blow to consolidation, was indirectly beneficial; for the people of the suburb promptly formed an election and voted to tax themselves to support a good graded school. Consolidation has proven successful wherever it has been given a fair trial; but the school policy in McCracken county has proven on a par with the road policy, which constructed gravel roads at a great cost and then permitted them to deteriorate, while new ones were being built.

Little rural schools, which have few pupils and remain open only three or four months, should be combined and kept open twice as long. That is rational; just as closing up a suburban school and sending the children farther into the country to school was not. To have contracted with the city to pay the tuition of county pupils, who wished to enter the city high school, with its laboratory, its corps of teachers and the use of the public library, would be rational and economical; just as spending thousands of dollars on a high school in one corner of the county, with no equipment, a small force of teachers and an immoderate expense, was not rational.

It's a pity our county school boards can't manage affairs in a business-like manner, as the city school board is doing.

STATE PRESS.

Our Fellowtownsman.

Steam Roller Berry, of Paducah, has been in action again the past few days, and has issued a manifesto to the Democrats of the Third senatorial district that puts to shame any edict ever issued by a czar. It looks like Berry would have learned a lesson from the result of the election held in this county last fall. His decision in which he upheld one of the most nefarious outrages ever perpetrated upon the people was responsible for that result, and his attempt now to force his opinions upon the voters of the Third district will result as disastrously if the citizenship of the district is not permitted to choose whom they will have to serve them in the state senate. Newton, Christman, Newt, Utley and W. A. Berry shall not steam roller the people in the district out of their rights, and the jackass who accepts a nomination at their hands might as well order his political gravestone and seek some sequestered spot where he can lay himself down to be devoured by the worms of his own flesh. The Ledger expects to take up the edict of Berry's and Christman's calamity howl of recent date and thoroughly diagnose them for the benefit of the people at an early date. There is some inside information that the public should know.—Murray Ledger.

Having put Calloway county in the Republican column, Judge W. A. Berry, of Paducah, is now trying his hand on the Third senatorial district.—Cadiz Record.

There's a dispatch going the rounds of the press that Mr. David Browning, of Paducah, wants to be secretary of state of Kentucky. From the information received, Mr. Browning is a Republican, and at the next votes as a snowball has to survive in election he will have about as much show of getting a majority of the place reserved for all Republicans. We have never had but two Republican secretaries of state. One was Charlie Finley, who skipped to Indiana, when he was indicted for complicity in the murder of Goebel, and the other is Dock Bruner, whom you can classify yourself. Mr. Browning may be banking for the juicy office of secretary of state, but let it be here understood that Captain Farley, the present state treasurer is the last Paducah Republican to hold a state office until after the deficiencies of the present administration are mercifully forgotten. Steals Energy and Will Power from Its Victims.

Catarrh robs its victim of energy—some physicians say of will power. That may be the reason why thousands of catarrh sufferers haven't ambition enough to accept this fair and square offer by Gilbert's drug store which he makes without any whys and wherefores or red tape of any kind.

W. J. Gilbert says, "I guarantee HYOMEI to cure catarrh, acute or chronic, or money back," and that offer is open to every reader of the Sun.

HYOMEI (pronounce it Hie-o-me) is the purest Australian Eucalyptus combined with Thymol and other germ killing antiseptics.

Pour a few drops into the small vest pocket HYOMEI inhaler and breathe it into the lungs over the inflamed membrane infested with catarrh germs.

It is pleasant to use—it kills the germs, soothes the sore membrane, and cures catarrh; if it doesn't your money back.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

"Editor Evening Sun: I have read in your 'voice of the people,' two very long articles by a Christian Scientist, in which he succeeds, as I thought he would, in proving there is nothing in Christian Science, more than that it serves the same purpose a clever jig saw puzzle might, to keep the minds of very nervous, self-consuming people off their 'works' while nature fixes them. I am not a minister, never was and never expect to be; but I observe that our Christian Science friend begs the question, by declaring that if a ballot were taken among the ministers of the several denominations, each to vote whether or not the other was preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ, each would vote that the other was not. That would be an interesting situation. If it were so; but it is not so. Whether or not a sermon is the gospel of Jesus Christ depends. I take it upon the man and the sermon; and I have heard ministers of the same denomination criticize one another freely; but since they frequently exchange pulpits, hold revivals together and belong to a common organization, I believe they must think they all preach the same gospel.

Yet, even if each did think the other unchristian that wouldn't prove Christian Science true. But I am not defending the preachers, I am interested in what our Christian Science friend says about the 'unreality' of things. The naive manner in which he manages to get perception and conception mixed in his mortal mind accounts to my satisfaction for some of the esoteric features of Mrs. Eddy's doctrines. Of course, we once thought the earth was flat; but that wasn't the fault of our senses—our perceptive faculties. As he says truly, the fault was that of conception. Our senses reported only facts; and the world was discovered to be round, not through any of the metaphysical precepts of Buddha, Mrs. Eddy or Bab; but by the same mortal senses, reinforced by certain instruments made of material things with skilled material fingers under the direction of the same mortal eyes that looked out upon an earth, which seemed to be flat. Our senses justified themselves. The very doctrine of Christian Science is written in a book and absorbed through the senses. The only time a Christian Scientist goes wrong is when he undertakes to form concepts that contradict the evidence of his perceptive faculties—his five senses—just as people went wrong when they thought the world was flat, forming concepts, that the senses afterwards disproved.

Our Christian Science friend says: 'Christian Science teaches no such silly doctrine as that sickness and pain can be destroyed by simply denying it or thinking it is unreal.'

No, certainly not, it just teaches 'that the material world, all the material objects we seem to see around us and which seem to be the only real things we have, are not real things at all but are nothing more than concepts of the human understanding. They are what our carnal minds give us, they are our opinions of real things.'

"Once we thought the world was flat," says our Christian Science friend, "but that does not make it flat, although it certainly looks flat to us." Here is a case he has cited, which proves the point against our friend.

Even when people thought the world was flat, as they looked out to sea it seemed as though the sea and sky met at a distant line, and that line they peopled with all the wonders of their imagination. Their mortal eyes—their perceptive faculty—which never deceive us, were trying to tell them the world was round; but they formed a wrong conception—which is just another term for idea. Afterwards the senses proved to us that the world was round; and still as we look out to sea, it seems that the sea and sky meet at a distance line, but our new conception is that the earth is round and the line of the horizon is where the sea curves out of sight and beyond we are looking straight into the same blue expanse we look into overhead.

Now, the idea of Christian Science is a concept; the result of a mental process, if you please, as contradicted through the senses. The percepts, the evidences of the senses, contradict the concept of Christian Science; but like the man, who, in spite of that line where the sea and sky seemed to meet, insisted that the world was flat; the Christian Scientist, who has a bad case in court with the weight of the evidence against him, is trying to impeach the testimony of the senses.

The Christian Scientist doesn't believe the world is round; he just believes "it is not a real thing at all, nothing more than a concept of the human understanding"; and this concept that the world is round is gained through other concepts, reinforced by percepts. Now the same faculties used through a glass, also the product of perception, and conception, discovered germs which cause these "concepts of disease," and germs apparently can be cultivated and apparently there is an agent in the human blood, which fights these germs; and in a microscope than we have in Mrs. Eddy's book; because we remember that the same effective cooperation of perception and conception, which produced the type and the ink and the paper that go into composing "Science and Health" and the round—apparently so—dollars the book costs; also were effective in producing the microscope through which we see the germs.

In other words, if our Christian Science friend won't believe there are germs, which can be seen through a glass with the eye, I refuse to believe that Mrs. Eddy ever wrote a book called "Science and Health," which has to be seen with the same eye; because my Christian Science friend says that my eye is deceived by concepts of my carnal mind. There is no germ under the glass; ergo there is no printing in Mrs. Eddy's book. What?

I would not wholly discredit Christian Science. I am one that thinks Providence sent all things for a useful purpose, and as far as Christian Science has been one of those agencies that has worked against cutting and slashing people up, and poisoning them with drugs, why, I am much obliged to Christian Science. But it lays too much stress on its healing ability. It is easy enough to say "John Jones had a cancer, and behold, he is well!"

First prove that John Jones had a cancer. I will not take the diagnosis of some doctor, who gave him up before Christian Science cured him; because even a Christian Scientist will admit that doctors sometimes make mistakes.

Once upon a time people had faith in "yarb tea"—the old woman's remedy. People drank the decoction and got well. Within the memory of folks, who call themselves young today, doctors prescribed great quantities of drugs; people imbibed them and got well. Now they have discovered germs; that these germs get into the blood, that the white corpuscles attach them and nature produces a toxic condition of the blood which militates against the success of the germs; and that by certain means this toxic condition can be exterminated in the blood and diseases, once considered necessarily fatal, can be stopped. We know now that the yarbs and the yarb teas didn't cure people; but that they got well in spite of them. And just as we are awakening to a realization that drugs don't cure here comes along Christian Science with the same claim: people have taken Christian Science treatment and recovered. True, and people have recovered without taking it. What's the answer?

I have a friend, who was stricken with typhoid fever in a camp, and all the medical treatment he received was a handful of large, smooth, white quinine tablets every morning. These were used for poker chips,

LOAN OFFICE, JUDGE REED DECIDES AND FINES MANAGER OF ODD BUSINESS

Unique business methods of J. M. Egan were exposed yesterday afternoon in the trial of his appeal in the McCracken circuit court, when he was found guilty of operating a money loaning company without paying the city license and was fined $25. He was fined $100 in the city police court, but Egan protested that he did not operate a money loaning agency and appealed the case. Even after Circuit Judge Reed announced that he considered the method of doing business nothing but an evasion of the law, Egan protested until Judge Reed threatened to make the fine higher.

Egan operated the Universal Supply company, 114 1/2 South Fifth street, during the months of January, February and March, when a warrant was sworn out against him. Since that time he announced that he had disposed of his business and did not care to take it up again.

The business dealings of Egan were principally among the colored population, and he had a number of colored witnesses yesterday in an effort to establish his "sale" of goods instead of loaning money. His method of doing business provoked laughter, and on first glance every "broke" person in the city might be a patron of his with profit to himself, but it was the after effect that proved hard for the customer.

Egan had too small rooms and one was utilized as an office while the second was stored with a stock of goods, consisting of a small number of shirt waists, skirts, blankets and other articles. When a customer was in the need of $5 or any small amount, she, for the majority of witnesses were negro women, would go to Egan's office.

There she would announce the fact and would receive five dollars in money and a shirt waist. The attorneys for the commonwealth sought to show that in the majority of cases the goods were not delivered until after the original debt was paid, but the memory of some of the witnesses was faulty. After the customer had received the money and the goods a long series of return payments was begun, and according to statements a debt of $5 and a shirt waist usually meant the payment of at least $10.

After hearing the evidence Judge Reed said he could consider it nothing but a fraud.

Every day when kind providence failed to send a tropical rain to cool his fevered brow, he played draw poker on a flat rock by Rio Cayce; and he got well.

Now, it won't do for any preacher to condemn draw poker when my friend is around; because he verily believes it cured him of typhoid fever. He had the fever, played poker and recovered. Someone else was sick, took Christian Science treatment and recovered: "Jim Cal's Nancy was took sick, an' she got drunk yarb tea, an' she got well."

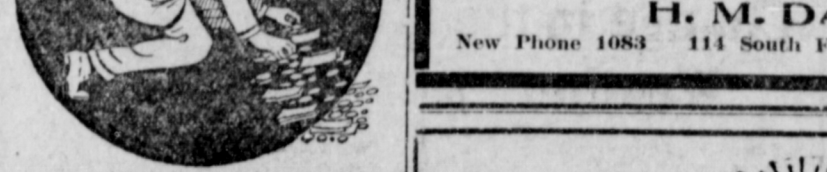

And it all simply goes to prove that if you just give nature half a chance, she'll pull you through regardless of draw poker, Christian Science or yarb tea.

A lot of people these days have fooled themselves into thinking they are sick, and if Christian Science can fool them back into thinking they are well again, good for Christian Science, say I.

But this is what I want some Christian Scientist to write about in the "Voice of the People"—what do you think about the next world, the resurrection, heaven, hell, transmigration of the soul, etc?

I think that would come nearer showing us how well you line up with the teachings of Jesus Christ.

He announced a fine of $25, but said he would make it higher if Egan desired to take an appeal. In the history of fire insurance in America, a large majority of the fire insurance companies organized have failed or retired from business. ELECTION IN SOUTH AFRICA

WELL KNOWN TOBACCO MAN WRITES ABOUT IT.

Mr. Edgar Elgin, Who Is Employed By the British Government There.

AN INTERESTING LETTER.

Mr. T. E. Elgin, formerly of this city, in a letter to the New Era, Hopkinston, says:

Pretoria, Sept. 26, 1910.—My Dear Folks at Home:—Perhaps you would enjoy hearing something of an election in South Africa.

In March of this year, the four colonies of Transvaal, Orange River, Natal and Cape Colonies formed the Union of South Africa, and on May 31 the Honorable Mr. Gladstone was sworn in as governor general, having been appointed by the crown to that office.

Some of those selected as members of the governor general's cabinet were General Smuts, minister of interior; General Hertzog, minister of justice, and General Botha, a mentally strong Dutchman, who was prominent in the Boer war.

General Botha was called by the governor general as prime minister and minister of agriculture. When this fact was made known the whole world was ready to congratulate both the English and Dutch people on having put aside the bitterness and hatred that existed during and shortly after the war, and the good and friendly feeling of the most prominent Boers and Britons for each other.

This seeming good feeling was not to last long, however, for the appointment of General Botha as member of the cabinet was only for a short period, until an election could be held, and when the political campaign started the "fur began to fly."

The Standerton district has heretofore been represented in provincial parliament by General Botha, and has always given him a good majority of the votes in that district. Through the influence of his party, he decided to "stand" for union parliament as the "National" candidate. His opponent was Sir Percy Fitzpatrick, a prominent Irishman, who is very popular with the English people of South Africa, and who made the race on the "Unionist" ticket.

The Issue.

It very soon developed that the issue was a race question, and the political fight was English versus Dutch, consequently all the old feeling that was said to have been buried was revived, and each day the lines were more closely drawn. It was claimed by the friends of Sir Percy Fitzpatrick that the fight was between privilege and democracy; the Nationalists declaring that "The Afrikaner must be 'bbaas,' while the Unionist says, 'The taxpayer must rule.'"

General Hertzog succeeded in getting an act passed that made teaching of both the Dutch and English languages in schools in Orange River Colony compulsory, so it naturally followed that there would be in the campaign what was called "Hertzogism" and "Anti Hertzogism." General Botha to a certain extent was on the defensive side of this all, as General Hertzog was appointed member of cabinet by him. Sir Percy of course used it as a cudgel to fight him with.

It was thought when General Botha was elected prime minister that he could reconcile the two races, but how well he succeeded only the results of the election could tell.

As time went on the campaign grew heated, the candidates and their friends stumping the country, the newspapers devoting almost all their space to politics, the people talking it all the time until scarcely anything else was thought of. The Unionist papers inserted in nearly every column in big letters such paragraphs as "Do you want industrial and technical education for your children? Vote Unionist," and "Are you against prohibiting the importation of competent, trained British teachers? Vote Unionist."

General Smuts was the Nationalist candidate for re-election in the Pretoria west district; the Labour party had its troubles and the independent candidate "also ran."

The day before the election, a man who looked to be old enough to vote could not walk down the street without being handed campaign literature such as hand bills, reading on one side, "Stem voor Buxton een eigen huis voor ider Blank Zuid-Afrika en geen kaffir stemrecht. Werk voor onze en Dochters." On the other side of the bill it read, "Vote for Buxton and Homes for the People. White South Africa, Abolish the Nigger Vote. Work for our children."

There are two of us here from America, one has been in Africa little more than a year, the other less than two months, so not being well acquainted with candidates or conditions, we naturally took no part in the campaign, but were interested spectators. Politics was the subject for discussion on the street, in the shops, at the dinner table, or anywhere else that a bunch of men happened to meet, until even strangers in the country would learn that something unusual was occupying the minds of the people. Civil servants are not allowed to take an active part in politics, but there is no objection to their reading the papers or hearing others express their opinions, and those civil servants who have been in the country long enough to register, can vote.

Campaign Close.

The night before the election, the two leading candidates made their closing speeches. At the Rex rink there was a big crowd of men and women, evidently mostly Dutch, and when General Botha arose to speak he was greeted by prolonged cheers, and while the speech was in English, the applause, the "Boos" and responses were in Dutch.

At the Capital rink Sir Percy spoke to equally as large a crowd as General Botha had, but nearly all were Englishmen.

It seemed to one who was not accustomed to such strenuous times that things were getting pretty warm, but a big Irishman who now lives here said this campaign and election was "tame" compared to "Oireland." "Why," he said, "we would not think of having an election in a town in my country with the streets all dug up as they are here; there are too many loose stones lying around, the air would be full of flying missiles."

The polls opened at 6 o'clock, but long before that time a number of autos were in readiness to bring in the voters from wherever they could be found, the Nationalists and Unionists banners covering both sides of their respective cars. The Nationalist banners were in red and white and having in big letters, "Vote for Botha, Stem voor Botha," so either Englishman or Dutchman would know what it meant.

The Unionists used equally as large banners, but their colors were green and white and read, "Fitz." These big machines were kept whizzing all day, and brought in many voters who otherwise would have stayed away from the polls; then there were quite a good number who were away from home, some in the remotest part of South Africa, but the candidates and their friends saw that these people got home in time to vote. Many came to town from the "Backveld," some in good vehicles and some in different styles. As one has said of their conveyances, they looked like piles of kindling wood put together to form a cart, and a lot of bones covered with untanned skins and decorated with long ears which made them resemble mules and donkeys.

The streets were full of men and women, all discussing the one subject; the colors of the candidates were everywhere to be seen; rosettes were worn by numerous supporters of both parties, and it would be difficult to say which were more in evidence, the white and red of the Nationalists or the green and white of the Unionists.

The polls closed at 8 p. m. and the returns are usually in from all the nearby precincts in less than two hours, so by 9 o'clock crowds had gathered at the several places where reports were given out anxiously awaiting to hear from the few most interesting districts.

The Results.

The results were given to the public by means of the stereopticon, which threw the plain figures on a canvas. In front of one of the government buildings a Dutch paper was giving the desired information, and the crowd looking on was certainly composed largely of Dutch, for when a plate was taken from the machine and replaced by one that read "Pretoria West Verkozen, Smuts," there was a tremendous noise went up from many mouths.

of the crowd; hats thrown into the air, flags waved and Dutch songs were sung. There were a few Englishmen in the crowd, but at this time they were very quiet, and stood and waited to hear from the one district in which every one was so much interested. After a short while the plate was changed, and the new one read "Pretoria Oost, Verkozen, Fitz." It was then the Englishman's turn to yell, and the comparatively small number present made good use of the opportunity, and seemed to think it was their duty to make as much noise as the Nationalists had a few minutes before; they yelled "Hurrah for Fitz," and those who did not have megaphones used their hands for substitutes and cried out, "Where is your flag now," and waved their green caps and sang songs about "Oirland and the Green," and a lot more that it would be hard to remember. Those who only a few minutes before had been so exceedingly happy were seemingly knocked breathless, and did not utter a sound, but as soon as they had sufficiently recovered, began to leave as fast as they could.

Having heard the news it was time for all who were not taking an active part to go home. It was interesting to see the different faces as the crowd moved away. It was one time when it was easy to distinguish Dutch from English, without hearing them speak, but only looking at their countenances. Had it been possible to construct a face using as dimensions the Dutch length multiplied by the "Fitz" smile, it would be hard to guess how many square feet it would have covered.

A prime minister must be a member of parliament, so when General Botha was defeated, the only alternative was for some Nationalist who had been elected to resign in favor of General Botha, or for the prime minister to resign the premiership. This General Botha threatened to do, and refused to accept any of the many seats offered him. The cabinet held meeting after meeting, Nationalists from all parts of the union sent requests and pleadings to him to accept one of the portfolios, but for several days the premier persistently refused, and it seemed there would be a split in his party, but finally he consented to accept, also to hold the premiership, a position, by the way, that pays 4,000 pounds sterling per annum. At the present moment the indications are that the differences will all be settled and the South African Union will mean a united effort for the advancement of commerce, education and civilization, and the newspapers will be filled with something else than politics for a while. Yours, T. E. ELGIN.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of their hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

NO GYMNASIUM

FOR LOCAL ATHLETES: "NOTHING DOING IN SPORTS."

A Movement Is Contemplated, However, to Try to Secure a Building and Revive Winter Games.

With the approach of cold weather the need of a gymnasium for the indoor sports is again the talk of the athletes of the city. The conversion of the former gymnasium into a stable leaves the basketball teams without a place to play. Basketball has become one of the most popular sports in the city, and the city league has attracted large crowds during the winter.

It is probable that there will be a meeting of the athletic enthusiasts soon, and efforts made to ascertain whether a hall can be rented for the winter or a gymnasium erected. Last year a committee was appointed to ascertain the advisability of erecting a gymnasium for the high school, but no steps were taken. After two successful basketball seasons it will be difficult for the fans to pass this winter without the regular games.

FRANK L. CHURCH

A PROMINENT STOCK FARMER DIES SUDDENLY.

Excitement Incident to a Dog Fight Thought to Have Caused the Fatal Shock.

In the midst of a conversation with Mr. Alex Mitchell, of Paducah, at his home near Maxon Mills late yesterday afternoon, Frank L. Church, a wealthy stock man, formerly of Chicago, dropped dead of heart failure, the sudden attack of which was aggravated by a dog fight on the farm 20 minutes beforehand.

Before medical aid could be summoned Mr. Church, who is 68 years old, gasped his last breath and died without uttering a word.

Mr. Mitchell, a well known bartender of this city, who owns a farm adjoining the Church stock farm, one and one-half miles east of Maxon Mills, had been looking over the stock farm with Mr. Church and while they were returning to the barn from the field two dogs, which were following them, began to fight. It was 15 minutes before the animals could be separated through the combined efforts of Mr. Church and Mr. Mitchell and the excitement caused Mr. Church to complain of his heart afterwards while they were inspecting the pigs.

On returning to the house Mr. Church sat down and was talking to Mr. Mitchell. Apparently hale and hearty, he suddenly threw back his head and clasped his hands over his heart. He slid from his chair to the floor and Mr. Mitchell rushed to him only to see the death stare in his eyes. Calling his son, Frank Church, Jr., Mr. Mitchell helped place him on the bed and just as he started for Dr. Hilliard, living one and one-half miles from the house, Mr. Church died.

Mr. Church located about Maxon Mills about four years ago, coming from Chicago, where he leaves two sons and two sisters. He set up the stock farm which has a reputation throughout Kentucky, Illinois, Tennessee, Missouri and other states, and lived there with his wife and son, Frank, Jr. Mr. Church leaves three sons by his first wife. Relatives from Chicago will arrive this afternoon and the body will be shipped to Chicago tomorrow for burial. Mr. Church was well known in Paducah and his sudden death was a shock to his friends.

Henry Isaman returned this morning from St. Louis, where he went to enter school.

SECRETARY BARNETT THINKS WILL STAY UP.

Says Farmers' Union Pool Will Get All It Is Asking For.

Breaking of the Burley tobacco pool is not regarded as likely to affect the western Kentucky tobacco pools by R. L. Barnett, state secretary of the Farmers' Union. The fact that it is an entirely different kind of tobacco and that it is in another section of the state are factors that will not spread discontent among the western Kentucky poolers.

"There is a shortage in the foreign market for dark tobacco," said Secretary Barnett, "and I look for a successful sale of the pooled crop. I realize that the buyers may try to wage an effective fight, but throughout the organization our members are informed of the exact condition, and I believe that they will all hold. I also expect to see better prices maintained this year, and the pooled crop should sell for an average of 1 cent to 1 1/2 cent higher than the pool of last year."

"From what I can learn the buyers this year probably will try to make use of the break of the Burley pool, although the exact amount of tobacco thrown on the market I have not learned. I expect the buyers to purchase a few scattered crops at high prices as an inducement for pooled crops to be sold, and then wait until late in the season before making any effort to fill their contracts. They will wait to see if the pools will break. However, I believe that the growers will remain firm."

According to Secretary Barnett the pool of the Farmers' Union in the Black Patch is much heavier than it was last year. In McCracken county the gain has not been much, but in the remaining counties the amount of pooled tobacco has beenmen soon loses his word for men.
